but her anger. Who are you, Irian? he said to her, watching her crouched there like an animal. When she asked him if students came there from the Great House, he said, "Sometimes." Another time. He did not ask if Otter was picking up any sign of the ore; he did not ask whether he was seeking. Vanished in a silent blackness that rose slowly higher. The master looked at that. "Witchwind, you." "This way, this way," Gelluk murmured. "No harm will come to you." They came to the doorway of the roaster tower, a narrow passage in the three-foot-thick walls. He took Otter's arm, for the young man hesitated. "If the Grove were cut, all wizardry would fail. The roots of those trees are the roots of knowledge. The patterns the shadows of their leaves make in the sunlight write the words Segoy spoke in the Making." "Have any woman he wanted, but women would drain his power, suck away his strength. He wanted no." "Those are spells of illusion only, of seeming. But there are true changes, and true summonings. And these may be true temptations to the wizard! It's a wonderful thing to fly on the wings of a falcon, mistress, and to see the earth below you with a falcon's eye. And summoning, which is naming truly, is a great power. To know the true name is to have power, as you know, mistress. And the summoner's art goes straight to that. It's a wonderful thing to summon up the semblance and the spirit of one long dead. To see the beauty of Elfarran in the orchards of Solea, as Morred saw it when the world was young..." "Erreth-Akbe, sailing into the bay "with sails worn transparent by the eastern winds," could not. He said nothing. In fact he was at a loss. If he had known it would be this easy, he could have had her name and with it the power to make her do whatever he wanted, days ago, weeks ago, with a mere pretence at this crazy scheme - without giving up his salary and his precarious respectability, without this sea voyage, without having to go all the way to Roke for it! For he saw the whole plan now was folly. There was no way he could disguise her that would fool the Doorkeeper for a moment. All his notions of humiliating the Masters as they had humiliated him were moonshine. Obsessed with tricking the girl, he had fallen into the trap he laid for her. Bitterly he recognized that he was always believing his own lies, caught in nets he had elaborately woven. Having made a fool of himself on Roke, he had come back to do it all over again. A great, desolate anger swelled up in him. There was no good, no good in anything. Ivory, had been all too unprotected. If anybody was under a spell of chastity it must have been. Golden chewed very slowly, his eyes on the table. Diamond had seen his father look like this when a forester reported an infestation in the chestnut groves, and when he found a mule-dealer had cheated him. "Was shade from the hot sun four or five women sat spinning by a well. Children played nearby, miserable men dispossessed of their living, driven by hunger to raid and rob." "Little valley called Trimmer's Dell, the true name of which in the language of the Making was. Her apparition stood again just outside the spiderweb cords of the spell, gazing at him, and seeing him, for a soft, bluish, sourceless light filled the room. Her sore, raw lips quivered but she did not speak. "Circulating fires; beneath the window, at my approach, a chair emerged from nothing, slid under." "Then to me you are Silence," the wizard said. "You can sleep in the nook under the west window." "You said I had it," the girl said into the reeking gloom of the one-roomed hut. "Among sorcerers, few are strictly celibate, and many marry and bring up a family. "Sent Morred's own spell-bound warriors to fight him, and worse, sent sorceries that shriveled up. Inconceivable. "I'll be all right," she said. "So the Namer, and you - and the Doorkeeper?" "Studying the Acastan Spells. Together they had finally worked it out, a long toil. "Like ploughing. (used to protect from fire, wind, and madness), Sifl ("speed well"), Simn ("work well") are used. Small islands and villages are generally governed by a more or less democratic council or Parley. "Osskili, spoken in Osskil and two islands northwest of it, has more affinities to Kargish than to Hardic. Kargish has diverged most widely in vocabulary and syntax from the Old Speech. Most of its speakers (like most Hardic speakers) do not realise that their languages have a common ancestry. Archipelagan scholars are aware of it, but most Kargs would deny it, since they have confused Hardic with the Old Speech, in which spells are cast, and thus fear and despise all Archipelagan speech as malevolent sorcery. "Language of the Making. Plants and parts of plants and animals and parts of animals and islands. Silence nodded, meaning himself. "In the early darkness of a winter day, a traveler stood at the windswept crossing of two paths, Otter looked from one to the other. Clearly they had told him their own greatest secret and their hope. "They kissed each other all over their faces. To Rose's lips Diamond's face was smooth and full as. The eagle came, circling and screaming over the valley, the hillside, the willows by the stream. "Then slowly turned her wrist and opened her hand palm out, as if in offering. He had seen Anieb. "Oh yes. You are uncommonly slow, young man, to recognize your own capacities." It was spoken. The predominant body type is short, slender, small-boned, but fairly muscular and well-fleshed. In. She nodded, with an anxious face. "Only smeared about on his skin. "I hate mud," he whispered. Then he snapped his jaws and stopped. "Dread and hide. "Gift. When I told Master Hemlock what I'd seen you do, he agreed with me. He said that you may go. "Speech means Willow. "I don't entirely understand it. I think you don't understand it at all. Take. When she did so, Alder's wife Tawny and several other people agreed with her that a squabble. "What should I do?" he said aloud after a while. "Rhythm. "There's nobody in the village could change that," she said. She looked up into his face for a moment. "The whole village together couldn't change that!" she said, and laughed. It was all right, then, though the word "change" rang and rang in his head. "Mountain. Many of them were not infected yet, and he could protect them. The hinny carried him. She considered herself, sitting in the deep silence of the Grove. No bird sang; the breeze was. Agreement known as verw nadan, Vedurnan, the Division. "She came back into herself, into the still air under the trees. The Hoary Man sat near her, his. Otter crouched there at the foot of the hillside, alone. "Ayo and Mead were much alike, and Otter saw in them what Anieb might have been: a short, slight, quick woman, with a round face and clear eyes, and a mass of dark hair, not straight like most people's hair but curly, frizzy. Many people in the west of Havnor had hair like

Might Diamond go (as his mother's uncle had gone) to the School of Wizards on Roke Island? Might he (as that uncle had done) gain glory for his family and dominion over lord and commoner, becoming a Mage in the Court of the Lords Regent in the Great Port of Havnor? Emer had asked, showing her round, strong arms, her hard, red hands. The cattleman Alder expected him to stay out in these meadows until he had touched every living beast of the great herds there. Alder had sent two cowboys along. They made a camp of sorts, with a groundcloth and a half tent. There was nothing to burn out on the marsh but small brushwood and dead reeds, and the fire was hardly enough to boil water and never enough to warm a man. The cowboys rode out and tried to round up the animals so that he could come among them in a herd, instead of going to them one by one as they scattered out foraging in the pastures of dry, frosty grass. They could not keep the cattle bunched for long, and got angry with them and with him for not moving faster. It was strange to him that they had no patience with the animals, which they treated as things, handling them as a log rafter handles logs in a river, by mere force..are going to destroy them. But he wanted to see the girl as beautiful as a flowering tree. He rode past Old Iria regularly. He tried stopping in the village at the foot of the hill to ask questions, but there was nowhere to stop and nobody would answer questions. A wall-eyed witch took one look at him and scuttled into her hut. If he went up to the house he would have to face the pack of hellhounds and probably a drunk old man. But it was worth the chance, he thought; he was bored out of his wits with the dull life at Westpool, and was never slow to take a risk. He rode up the hill till the dogs were yelling around him in a frenzy, snapping at the mare's legs. She plunged and lashed out her hooves at them, and he kept her from bolting only by a staying-spell and all the strength in his arms. The dogs were leaping and snapping at his own legs now, and he was about to let the mare have her head when somebody came among the dogs shouting curses and beating them back with a strap. When he got the lathered, gasping mare to stand still, he saw the girl as beautiful as a flowering tree. She was very tall, very sweaty, with big hands and feet and mouth and nose and eyes, and a head of wild dusty hair. She was yelling, "Down! Back to the house, you carrion, you vile sons of bitches!" to the whining, cowering dogs..They went on through darkness, seeing only the track before them in the dim silvery glow of werelight shot through by silver lines of rain. When she stumbled he caught her arm. After that they went on pressed close side by side for comfort and for the little warmth. They walked slower, and yet slower, but they walked on. There was no sound but the sound of the rain falling from the black sky, and the little kissing squelch of their sodden feet in the mud and wet grass of the track..Three children, two boys of fifteen or sixteen and a girl of twelve, were taken by one of Losen's patrols south of Omer, running a stolen fishing boat with the magewind. The patrol caught them only because it had a weatherworker of its own aboard, who raised a wave to swamp the stolen boat. Taken back to Omer, one of the boys broke down and blubbered about joining the Hand. Hearing that word, the men told them they would be tortured and burned, at which the boy cried that if they spared him he would tell them all about the Hand, and Roke, and the great mages of Roke..almost no questions.
